Building a Inventors Book Display

Aiden helped the librarian prepare a display about inventors on Tuesday.

They gathered 13 books from the shelves and placed them on a wide worktable.

Each book was checked for a clear cover, an accurate call number, and pages in good condition.

Aiden grouped the books into fiction, nonfiction, and reference sections.

The tallest books went on the lower shelf so they would not block the display title.

Three worn books were returned to the repair cart instead of being displayed.

A short label beneath each section explained what readers could find there.

Before opening the display, the librarian compared the shelf list with every book in place.
