Preparing for the Spring Concert

The school orchestra began rehearsing six weeks before its spring concert.

Violin players practiced a fast section slowly before increasing the tempo.

The flute group marked places where everyone needed to take a quiet breath.

Percussion students tested soft mallets to balance the sound of the drums.

Conductor Ms. Brooks recorded one rehearsal and played it back to the group.

Students noticed that the final chord ended at slightly different times.

They practiced watching the conductor's hands during the last four measures.

At the concert, the final chord ended together and the audience applauded warmly.
